Polycom Introduces Special Pricing on Video Endpoint Service Reactivation Fees

We want you back! Polycom is pleased to announce this limited time offer to place your videoconferencing systems back under the care of Polycom and Partner experts.

Has the maintenance contract on your Polycom HDX, VSX or V Series video endpoints expired? Are your videoconferencing systems out-of-warranty and in need of a Polycom or Partner branded service contract? Effective November 3, 2008, Pay-Per-Incident Service will go into effect offering video product technical support only to Customers with active service contracts. Customers without active service contract or systems that are out of warranty will incur a $150 Pay-Per-Incident fee for assistance from our technical support team.

If the Service Reactivation Fee is standing in the way of placing your videoconferencing systems under a support service contract, Polycom has good news for you. Service Stimulus ReACTivation.

Service Stimulus ReACTivation Overview

What are you waiting for? Service Stimulus ReACTivation has been created to keep your system at peak performance. Start enjoying the peace of mind a system under a support service contract brings. The base level of support service delivers unlimited technical support during business hours, software updates, and advance parts replacement, escalation support, and e-support. The next levels of support services include options such as on-site support, account-specific tech support access 24x7, and account-specific service managers.

Polycom strives to provide world-class service and support to all of our Customers. To allow us to serve you better, we are pleased to announce this special offer on our Service Reactivation Fees. From November 1, 2008 to December 31, 2008, Polycom will incur 100% of the cost of the Service Reactivation Fee!

What does this mean for you? If your HDX, VSX or V Series system is not currently covered by a support service contract – or is out of warranty – this special offer will place the most current software on your system. Your system will be upgraded with the latest features and functionality a new software upgrade brings. Keep your investment at the leading edge of technology - and benefit by having the security of knowing you have the support of industry's leading global support organization.
